

Certificate of Occupancy Search User Guide

How to Search:

Due to changes in naming conventions over the decades, PLI recommends customers use wildcard searches to retrieve data. Wildcard searches use an asterisk symbol (*) in the search field; this tells the system to look for everything before or after a series of letters or numbers. The wildcard search can be used in any of the search fields.

Examples of wildcard searches:

- * GRANT * in the Property Address field will return all Certificates of Occupancy regardless of street number or type (St, Rd, AVE).

The screenshot displays the PLI Certificate of Occupancy search interface. The left panel, titled 'Search', contains instructions and input fields for Property Address, Parcel Number, Permit Number, and Ward. The 'Property Address' field contains the text '* Grant *'. The right panel, titled 'Results', shows a list of search results, each displaying the permit number, address, and ward. The results are filtered to show only those containing 'GRANT ST'.

Search Field Tips:

Property Address:

- Use the wildcard key in place of all street types (RD, ST, DR, etc.) i.e.- 200 Ross ***

Parcel Address:

- Parcel ID's were placed on Certificates of Occupancy in 2007. However, even if the Certificates of Occupancy that you're looking for are from 2007-Present, this search field is not available for all Certificates of Occupancy. PLI will have all Parcel IDs as a searchable field for all Certificates of Occupancy from 2007-Present within the near future.
- The Parcel is formatted as the shortened version of the Parcel ID with hyphens
 - i.e.- 55-D-135, 55*D*135, 5*-D-1* , *-D-

Permit Number:

- The City of Pittsburgh has formatted the Permit Number on Certificates of Occupancy different ways throughout the year:
 - 1927- 2004 – Permit Number was formatted as a string of number
 - 1027, 5489, 22754, 60212, 88589
 - 2005-2010- Permit number was formatted two different ways:
 - 1.) The year followed by a string of numbers. i.e.- 201000496, 2010
 - 2.) The abbreviated year with a hyphen followed by a string of numbers.
i.e.- 09-06473, 09-*
 - 2011 – Present – Permit number is formatted two different ways:
 - 1.) If the Certificate of Occupancy is not attached to a building permit the format is as follows: Abbreviated Year-OCC-Number.
i.e.- 17-OCC-01005 , 18-OCC-, 1-Occ-*
 - 2.) If the Certificate of Occupancy is attached to a building permit the format is as follows: Abbreviated Year-type of building Permit-Number.
i.e.- 12-sgn-00026, 15-B-01618, 18-M-, 13-E-
 - i. SGN = Sign Permit
 - ii. B = Building Permit
 - iii. M = Mechanical Permit (HVAC)
 - iv. E = Electrical Permit

Using Multiple Search Fields

- You can use multiple search fields to find what you're looking for. i.e.- finding all Certificates of Occupancy that are attached to sign permits in 2012 in 12th ward

Note/ tips: The City of Pittsburgh does not require a Certificate of Occupancy to sell or buy a property like other municipalities surrounding Pittsburgh. This does not mean that the property meets all applicable zoning and building codes. The buyer may be required to apply for an Occupancy Permit if the current use of the structure or land is different than the current Certificate of Occupancy. To ensure that the real estate transaction meets Pennsylvania law, you must complete a Zoning Certificate request.

- Existing single-family homes may not have a Certificate of Occupancy because past regulations did not require one
